

BUSINESS AND ADMINISTRATION

Christopher L. Augostini
Executive Vice President, Business and Administration and Chief Financial Officer

Dear Emory Colleagues,

I write to announce that effective February 1, 2023, Diana Carter will assume the Vice President, Chief Audit and Risk Officer position for Emory University and Emory Healthcare. I would like to thank the Chair of the Audit and Compliance Committee of the Emory Board of Trustees, Shan Cooper, with whom I jointly make this appointment.

By maximizing the collaborative efforts between the Internal Audit and Enterprise Risk Management functions, Emory will be able to manage risks and navigate regulatory environments as they continue to evolve in higher education and the healthcare industry.

Diana has served as Interim Chief Internal Audit Officer since September 1, 2022, in that short period of time, she has been a trusted and valued resource for Emory's Board of Trustees, executive leadership, and the Internal Audit department.

As Vice President, Chief Audit and Risk Officer, Diana will have direct oversight of Internal Audit and Enterprise Risk Management and continue to have operational oversight of the university's Office of Ethics and Compliance and the Office of Resilience. The coordination and alignment of the work from these offices will provide a framework for Emory leadership to approach mission-based activities, while methodically identifying, assessing, preparing, and responding to potential risks related to known and emerging issues. This more integrated approach allows our institution to support and advance our core mission of education, research, and patient care.

As a certified public accountant with a master's degree in accounting, Diana began her career leading external audit services for large complex organizations while working for Deloitte. Since joining Emory in 2013, she has built a solid foundation of knowledge through roles in the finance division, chief business officer for Candler School of Theology, vice president risk management, and chief of staff for the office of the EVP for Business and Administration. During several of these roles at Emory, Diana has maintained strong coordination with Internal Audit, partnering directly on multiple initiatives.

Diana will continue to report to me as well as Ms. Shan Cooper. Please join me in congratulating Diana as Vice President, Chief Audit and Risk Officer.

Sincerely,

Chris Augostini
